the chairperson's report

On behalf of the Trustees of St. Stephen's Green Trust I am pleased to present our Annual Report and our accounts for 2008. It was a challenging year for St. Stephen's Green Trust and, like many other Charitable Foundations and commercial interests, we were adversely affected by the various crises which took place in the global and Irish money markets during 2008. On account of significant reductions in some of our investments the grant-giving income available to St. Stephen's Green Trust has decreased from €790,050 in 2006 to €644,783 in 2008 - a drop of almost 20%.

This drop in income, largely caused by the collapse of the equity markets in Ireland and in other countries, has had an obvious and unfortunate impact on the number of organisations and groups which we were able to support in 2008. The Trustees of St. Stephen's Green Trust were extremely conscious of the fact that our capacity to make grants to a fairly large number of organisations and groups was being reduced at the same time as many of these organisations and groups were receiving less money from Government Departments and statutory agencies. This situation has served to highlight the fact that there are relatively few funding opportunities and possibilities for organisations and groups within the community and voluntary sector in Ireland. If organisations and groups suffer a significant reduction in statutory funding (or have their funding cut altogether) it can be extremely difficult and oftentimes impossible to secure alternative funding. In the Republic of Ireland, for example, there are only about 30 Charitable Foundations – this compares unfavourably to the 8,800 Charitable Foundations in the UK.

2008 was a difficult and challenging year for St. Stephen's Green Trust as we tried to manage a situation where the amount of grant-giving money decreased and the requests for financial assistance increased significantly.

The precarious nature of reliance on Government funding is reflected in the savage cuts which have led to the closure of the National Consultative Committee on Racism and Interculturalism, the decimation of the Equality Authority and the abolition of the Combat Poverty Agency and the harsh cutbacks which have taken place within the Irish Human Rights Commission. The very harsh budgetary decisions appear to have been focused on agencies which have been critical of Government. It would be unfortunate if we are moving to a situation where no dissent is tolerated and where organisations and groups critical of Government policies will have their public funding significantly reduced or withdrawn completely.

St. Stephen's Green Trust will continue to work with organisations and groups which promote human rights, equality and social justice. We are of the view that these principles represent the hallmarks of a decent and democratic society. Some of the groups whom we work with – disability groups, homelessness organisations, Traveller groups, groups dealing with offenders and ex-prisoners – are clearly aware of many of the injustices and inequalities which exist within Irish society. We are pleased to be in a position to support projects and initiatives being developed by these groups.

In 2008, St. Stephen's Green Trust spent some time developing a programme called the Christian Values and Social Change Programme which will be launched in 2009. The programme emerged from a desire of one of our funders for St. Stephen's Green Trust to have a stronger focus on the transmission of Christian values and the development of leadership within the Churches in Ireland. St. Stephen's Green Trust engaged Dr. David Barker, a social scientist with a strong background in faith-based work, to undertake an extensive series of consultations and this led to the establishment of the Christian Values and Social Change Programme (which will have a minimum budget of €100,000 in 2009).

St. Stephen's Green Trust is pleased with the work which has taken place in the Darndale/Belcamp area of north Dublin during 2008. This work is a direct result of a financial contribution of €2 million from the Oblates of Mary Immaculate to St. Stephen's Green Trust for activities in the Darndale/Belcamp area. This money is being allocated over a 10 year period. In addition to the ongoing distribution of grants to local groups in Darndale/Belcamp, St. Stephen's Green Trust is also happy to have played a lead role in the production of a 5 year Strategic Plan for the area (to be launched in 2009) and in providing developmental, technical support to a number of local groups (through the work being carried out by Breda Keogh). The Trust welcomes the financial and other contributions made by 3 bodies towards the Needs Analysis: Dublin City Council; DNE Drugs Task Force and Northside RAPID.

St. Stephen's Green Trust is also pleased to have been associated with the work of Philanthropy Ireland during 2008. St. Stephen's Green Trust was one of the founding members of Philanthropy Ireland and is currently represented on the Board of Philanthropy Ireland. Under the leadership of Liam O'Dwyer (Chairperson) and Jackie Harrison (Chief Executive) Philanthropy Ireland has made significant progress in raising awareness about philanthropy in Ireland (especially amongst potential philanthropists) and in highlighting issues to key public sector decision makers about the most effective ways to grow and develop philanthropy in Ireland. At a time when many organisations are worried about their sustainability and ongoing reliance on public funding, there has never been a more important time to grow the philanthropic sector in Ireland.

I am very grateful for the support, the advice and the wisdom provided to St. Stephen's Green Trust by our own Trustees and by the observers from donor organisations who attend our Trustee meetings. I am also very appreciative of the contributions which have been made by Orla O'Neill to the development of St. Stephen's Green Trust in 2008. Orla is the Grants and Development Director of St. Stephen's Green Trust and she has played an instrumental role in administering grants in an effective and professional manner and in progressing many of the positive developments which have taken place during 2008.

Finally I would like to thank the donors who have contributed to the St. Stephen's Green Trust and who have entrusted us with the responsibility for allocating money on behalf of their organisations and congregations – Stichting Porticus, the Daughters of the Cross, the Oblates of Mary Immaculate and the Discalced Carmelites are the main funders of the St. Stephen's Green Trust and we are very pleased to have developed the type of partnership model within which they provide the money and we carry out the assessments and administer the grants (with a clear focus on the funding priorities and preferences of the donor organisations and congregations).

2008 was a difficult and challenging year for St. Stephen's Green Trust as we tried to manage a situation where the amount of grant-giving money decreased and the requests for financial assistance increased significantly. We tried to be fair and reasonable to applicant groups and we alerted them to the fact that there was less money available in 2008 than there was in 2007. Prevailing economic circumstances suggest that St. Stephen's Green Trust might also have to curtail its grant-giving activities in 2009 in order to protect our investments and to guarantee the long-term sustainability of St. Stephen's Green Trust.

Hopefully, the economic and monetary situation in Ireland and in other countries will improve within the next 3-5 years. This economic and monetary upturn will enhance the grant-giving capacity of Charitable Foundations like St. Stephen's Green Trust. In the meantime we will endeavour to keep supporting groups and organisations which have the potential to make a difference within Irish society and to improve the quality of life for people experiencing high levels of disadvantage and social exclusion. Through working with these groups and organisations and through seeking to influence other organisations and agencies we can all work together to make Ireland a better place to live for all of our citizens.

Stephen Rourke, February 2009

grants and development report

equity

Total grants awarded in 2008 was €644,783, down 7% overall on last year. The reduction in the General Grant Scheme was significantly greater than the Darndale Belcamp Grants Scheme. Fewer grants were given due to less money being available as a result of the downturn in the financial markets. Two of our funds are sourced from permanent endowments.

There were 203 applications to the Trust in 2008 of which approximately 56% were allocated grants. The number of applications is up 5% on 2007 and the success rate is similar to 2007. The 114 successful grants are listed below.

Grants are divided into the General Grants Scheme and the Darndale/Belcamp grants scheme and criteria for each are detailed in our Guidelines.

The General Grants Scheme

which is available to organisations across the 32 counties, made 81 grants in 2008, down from 89 in 2007, a reduction of 9%. The total sum awarded in 2008 was €396,835, a 30% reduction on 2007. The average grant was €4,900, down from €6,300 in 2007 and reflects the larger number of grants made, relative to available funds, compared to last year. Grants ranged from €1,000 to €12,000.

The Trust continued to develop the new Christian Values and Social Change grants programme, funded by one of the four funders, Porticus UK.

A restricted call for proposals is being made under specific criteria in Spring 2009 and grants will be awarded prior to the Summer. The Programme is informed by a view from the Trustees that in Ireland today there is considerable poverty of spirit, a fracturing of family and community and a breakdown of institutions, all of which have contributed to a tangible sense of hopelessness. The Christian Values and Social Change initiative is intended to provide opportunities for organisations concerned about this reality and who are enthusiastic about creating social change in a way that values diversity and promotes cohesiveness.

The Darndale/Belcamp Grant Scheme

which will continue until 2015, awarded €247,948 in 33 grants. One grant of €40,000 was for core funding for the New Life Centre, and made in partnership with the Oblate Congregation. Of the 32 remaining grants, the average grant was €6,500, an 18% increase on 2007. The Trust continued its direct involvement in the management of two particular grants, the Needs Analysis and the Grantwriter pilot project.

Needs Analysis

SSGT Chairman, Stephen Rourke chaired the Darndale Belcamp Needs Analysis Steering Committee during the year. This Committee managed the implementation of the Community Survey which took place between June and December 2008, coordinated by Donagh MacArtain. The survey was conducted in 480 households by a team of specially-trained local researchers. A separate on-line youth survey was also undertaken. This project continues in 2009 with a focus on identifying locally-led responses and recommendations to the survey findings. The Trust appreciates the involvement of the Steering Committee in the success of the project, whose members including people living and working in the area. In particular, the financial support of Dublin City Council, the DNE Drugs Task Force and Northside RAPID has contributed to the impact of the project.

Grantwriter

Breda Keogh worked with 7 sports groups throughout the year supporting them across a range of areas with a view to increasing their capacity and success in attracting funding from other sources. This has proved successful and several sports groups got grants for the first time or increased the amount they got from some sources. A review of this pilot project will take place in 2009 with a view to examining how the service might be provided in the future if the review is favourable.

Kildare Newbridge Interculturalism Today (KNIT)

Kildare Newbridge Interculturalism Today (KNIT) was formed by people concerned with the debilitating effects the asylum process was having on the lives of people who had come through that process. It is a company limited by guarantee with a Board of 11 people, including some who have come through the asylum process.

KNIT members have been centrally involved in Kildare Town and Newbridge Asylum Seekers Support Groups. These groups actively supported people living in the direct-provision centres (DPCs) in each of these towns (the Kildare town Centre is now closed). People living in the accommodation centres were experiencing very difficult conditions and many suffered despondency, isolation, dependence and often, depression. Further obstacles were the lack of knowledge of the various services in place for people in the areas of housing, social welfare, community welfare and health services.

As people came through the asylum process and the direct provision system their needs became more obvious as suddenly they had to leave an institution and integrate themselves into the community, with little or no support available.

KNIT was formed as a response to meeting these needs. Although it arose out of the direct experience of two Kildare towns, it operates on a county-wide basis and is the only such organisation in the entire county which has 4.4% of the total foreign national population in Ireland. This is the highest percentage for a county without a city within its borders. Thus it comes into fourth place behind, Dublin, Cork and Galway. KNIT fills the county-wide gap in relation to the provision of information, advocacy and support to people newly resident in the county, and particularly those 'with status'.

KNIT provides a range of services to its target group including Drop-in Centres in Kildare and Newbridge, access to training and advocacy services across a range of areas. KNIT also carried out research, Here to Stay, to evaluate the needs of the target group. A key finding was that underpinning the difficulties people have in integrating into the community is an attitude from many individuals and bodies that this target group is a transient group and not here to stay.

Slí Eile

Slí Eile is the Jesuit Initiative for Young Adults, combining faith formation and work for social justice. It was born out of the desire to put the Gospel in dialogue with modern culture, and is participative in nature, not assuming a level of religious knowledge or practice. The initiative is designed to be largely responsive to young people and involves building an integrated programme into which young people can come at their own level, and grow in intellectual and felt knowledge of their faith. Slí Eile accompanies and empowers young adults in their search to 'find God in all things', engaging them around the core values of Ignatian Spirituality, community and social justice. Programmes of self-discovery, retreats, spirituality courses, pilgrimages, gospel choir masses and justice and community initiatives have been developed at home and abroad. Within the justice programme three strands of volunteering work are offered - long term residential volunteering in Ballymun, short term overseas volunteering in the Developing world and part-time local volunteering in inner city Dublin.

A faith community of young people working and studying in Dublin was established in 2008, and weekly prayer meetings take place across Dublin city based on the dynamics of the Spiritual Exercises of St Ignatius of Loyola. Most recently, Slí Eile has begun more systematic engagement with prisoners and opened a new office in Galway establishing a Gospel Choir mass, volunteering and retreat activities there.

Ad hoc workshops and seminars are also run on request and frequently in tandem with the wider Jesuit Province. Slí Eile works particularly with universities, Dioceses, second level schools and other youth organisations involved in Christian faith formation, so as to continually attract young adults to its mission.

Slí Eile is a team of 13 people – 8 full-time, continually trying to dialogue with young people to be creative, flexible and relevant in the work that we do. We have a particular concern for those on the margins, including those on the margins of their faith. Young people are free to dip in and out of the various programmes of work, and their own leadership skills are developed through a particular model of leadership that we espouse.

'Slí Eile is a place where you meet people with similar kind of values, where it is ok to talk about spiritual stuff. The Gardiner St Gospel Mass is a Mass where people are spoken to as intelligent adults, where the issues are relevant to real life and where there is a lot of lay input and involvement' Breda (age 25).

Philanthropy Ireland

Philanthropy Ireland is the Association of independent philanthropic organisations in Ireland, including grant making trusts and foundations. Established in 1998 as the Funders' Forum, Philanthropy Ireland's membership has grown to 25 organisations that disburse over €75 million each year. Philanthropy Ireland's overarching goal is to support and grow philanthropy in Ireland through the promotion of philanthropy, advocacy and our membership services.

In January 2008, Philanthropy Ireland held the inaugural Ray Murphy Memorial Lecture at University College Cork. Approximately 130 people from Ireland and overseas attended the first lecture, which was delivered by President Mary McAleese, who noted that 'Philanthropy is a crucial part of any healthy and vibrant society. It reveals values of generosity, mutuality and care that refine and enhance the texture of our lives. It creates precious opportunities for new levels of achievement and inclusion in the community and voluntary sector, the arts, heritage, sports, in research and education.'

Last October, Philanthropy Ireland launched a three-year strategy and its new website, www.philanthropy.ie. The organisation has committed to playing a more active role in the promotion and development of philanthropy in Ireland through the Ray Murphy Lecture series, working with professional advisors and providing thought leadership on philanthropy. The organisation will also publish and participate in research related to philanthropy, advocate for effective tax and legal structures through the Governmentled Forum on Philanthropy and provide its members with networking and learning opportunities. Through these activities, we hope to see a significant increase in the frequency and amount of charitable giving, and that philanthropy will gain recognition as a highly rewarding means of making a lasting impact on society in Ireland and overseas.

With valuable input from its members and leading tax and legal experts, Philanthropy Ireland published guidance for those who are considering setting up a foundation in Ireland, which is available to download on our website alongside an interactive version of our Guide to Giving.

Financial support and guidance from the St. Stephen's Green Trust has enabled us to achieve the targets set in our ambitious 2008 work plan while focusing on how we might continue to improve our membership services and advocacy and promotional activities.

Teen Challenge Ireland

Teen Challenge provides a faith-based rehabilitation service for men and women who experience life control problems arising from alcohol and substance abuse. Teen Challenge was founded in New York 50 years ago and has since established 1,060 centres in 82 countries. Teen Challenge Global is the umbrella body which is based in US and the centres worldwide conduct a modular rehabilitation program over 14 months adopted to reflect cultural differences.

Teen Challenge Ireland was incorporated in Ireland in 1994 and is a registered charity (CHY 11596). In the earlier years candidates for the program were channeled to centres run in Scotland and Wales by Teen Challenge UK. Finally in 2003 a women's centre, Shechem House, was established near Newbridge, Co Kildare, which accommodates 6 students plus staff. Outbuildings were converted for teaching and administration.

In 2008 Tiglin, an established residential outdoor centre outside Ashford Co Wicklow, was acquired as a men's centre. Due to the building having been unoccupied for some years a considerable amount of refurbishment work was necessary. The centre which we hope will eventually accommodate 22 men opened in August and there are currently 12 beds occupied plus staff.

Program candidates may be drawn from anywhere in Ireland but are in the most part from Dublin, where the Teen Challenge presence has been established. In reaching our target audience outreach teams distribute information leaflets to Garda stations, community centres and also house to house. In addition a drop-in café is open one night per week as a touch-point for those who wish to follow up on an application status or obtain more information about the program. There is also an outreach to prostitutes who might otherwise be unaware of the program.

Teen Challenge has established close working relationships with key state services. New female garda graduates from Naas have spent two weeks training in Shechem House fully participating in the program with students. Regular visits are made to Mountjoy Dochas Prison which in one case resulted in a prisoner being released to Shechem House to serve out a sentence on the rehabilitation program.

The Board of Teen Challenge is deeply grateful for the support of St Stephen's Green Trust.

Travact

TravAct Traveller Enterprise & Employment programme works with individual Travellers, aiding them to progress into certified training, mainstream employment and self-employment. 2008 was a successful year for TravAct. We exceeded our expectations and targets for registering businesses, employment, training & mentoring. However, most progress took place in the first six months of the year. The primary focus for 2009 is to consolidate the gains and assist those who have committed to the formal economy by providing support structures and mentoring.

- To sustain the companies that have registered in the formal economy.
- Create opportunities for new businesses to register.
- Develop employment and ring-fenced opportunities with public and private organisations.
- Short-term certificate based training assistance that will lead to up-skilling and job development.
- Develop meaningful mainstream integration with state agencies.

Actual achievements are summarised below;

Targets	TARGET	ACTUAL-2008
Limited Companies/ Sole Traders	10	13
Aftercare/Mentoring	12	18
Full-time Jobs	23	53
Part-Time Jobs	34	13
Training	30	69

There have been fundamental changes in the international and domestic economy. Due to the nature of where the Traveller economy operates (lower skill based and general operative level) this has had a significant detrimental effect on the ground. For example; Waste: Highly regulated- new rules introduced in July 2008 have made it increasingly difficult to attain permits for scrap, Security: Highly regulated, Construction: Significant lay-offs of skilled & unskilled labour.

This has resulted in a number of businesses shifting from the Irish economy to the European economies (3 construction companies are now operating in the UK & Germany) and 4 waste companies have shifted from household and green waste removal to tyres and metal scrap. The initial focus of the program was developing registered Limited Liability companies. Individuals who have engaged in the programme throughout 2008 tend to be Sole Trader operators, hence the focus has now changed to developing Sole Trader businesses. Three limited companies set-up throughout 2007 have filed for voluntary strike-off and re-registered as Sole Traders.

An encouraging development has been the number of enthusiastic Travellers who have been following up and engaging with the project seeking employment opportunities. An evaluation (Fran McVeigh-2008) of the POBAL program in 2007 concluded; "This evaluation demonstrates the success of the community/business model and the necessity of expert intervention to encourage Travellers to avail of employment and enterprise development opportunities."

One of the focuses over the coming period is to codify the process and integration of the program towards the mainstream State Agencies.

Integrating Ireland

Integrating Ireland is an independent network of community and voluntary groups working in mutual solidarity to promote and to realise the human rights, equality, and full integration of refugees, people seeking asylum, migrants and immigrants in Ireland. Our vision is a just, diverse and inclusive Irish society that ensures the full participation and rights of migrants, immigrants, refugees and people seeking asylum. Membership comprises of a little over 240 organisations from around the country.

The network, divided into five regions, seeks to maximise scarce resources by reducing duplication of work, building the capacity of member organisations, combining efforts in relation to lobbying and sharing information and by providing effective national co-ordination on agreed strategic issues.

The organisation has established four regional offices that are staffed by 4 full-time Regional Outreach and Development Officers who report to the Network Coordinator. The function of the Network is to provide outreach through quarterly regional meetings and national fora. This outreach includes information provision, but also collection and collation of information for other stakeholders in both the voluntary and community, and statutory sectors. The regional meetings also act as venues for other stakeholders to meet and showcase their work to the attendees. On average over 30 organisations and twice as many individuals attend each regional meeting and over 80 organisations and up to 150 people attend national fora. In addition, the Network also provides capacity building training, business planning and mentoring to some of the 240 member organisations.

The Policy section of Integrating Ireland is coordinated by a Policy Coordinator who has a part-time Information Officer, responsible for the monthly e-bulletin and other regular information flows and queries directed to the organisation. Integrating Ireland has worked in a diverse range of policy issues such as the new Immigration, Residency and Protection Bill, direct provision, social inclusion and local authorities, integration of immigrant youth, understanding migrant labourer's qualifications and expertise in the workplace and more. During the last few years the organisation has made over 10 submissions to various EU and Irish Government processes. This policy work is complemented and informed by that of a Research Coordinator who covers research and international liaison work, the latter arising out of the organisation's involvement in a number of EU fora.

The Director, Operations Manager and Financial Director make up the administrative team. A Board of ten, half of whom are directly elected from the membership, is headed by a Chair that oversees the governance of the organisation. There is a good mix of Irish and immigrant staff both within the organisation and the Board.

The New Life Centre sees the family unit as paramount we don't just work with one part of this unit but strive to engage with the entire family at multiple levels through a variety of media and resources.

We aim to create a sustainable holistic centre that begins with children at crèche level and incorporates all people of Darndale Belcamp up to the Active Age group. We aim to combat the difficulties in the estate and facilitate people in bringing about change in their lives and community.

The Centre aims to meet the needs of lone parents, young mothers and fathers, young people, children, senior citizens the marginalised and all those in need. Each year our programmes change to meet the new needs of the community.

The centre aims to tackle disadvantage and disability, assisting individuals to break through the issues that stop them accessing mainstream life. It strives to enhance potential, through social, educational and personal developmental programmes. The Centre acts as a first step towards participation and social inclusion for the vulnerable and marginalised in the community of Darndale Belcamp. We provide crèche facilities to give parents a break or to allow them to attend counselling, massage or any of the courses on offer. We also aim to facilitate parents and young people who are trying to study or get back into the workforce.

The New Life Centre acts as a catalyst for community development activity. It is at the hub of the Community, trying hard to work with other community, voluntary and statutory groups in the area.

Preparing For Life

Preparing for Life (PFL) is an early intervention/prevention programme managed by the Northside Partnership supporting families in the Darndale, Belcamp, Moatview and Bonnybrook areas of Dublin. The programme aims to produce better outcomes for children and parents by supporting families during pregnancy and the early years of a child's life. PFL is funded by the Atlantic Philanthropies and Government, with support from St. Stephen's Green Trust.

At full capacity the programme will work with 200 families. Parents join PFL during pregnancy and remain part of the programme until their child commences school. The PFL team are based in the Darndale Belcamp Village Centre and work with families in their own homes, in the Village Centre or in other community locations, depending on the wishes of the family.

Research is a crucial part of PFL and UCD's Geary Institute has been contracted to carry out a full evaluation of the programme to see how well it works and the outcomes it produces. One part of the research involves an annual survey (carried out each year from 2008 to 2011) to find out the range of skills children have when they start school. PFL is delighted that the St. Stephen's Green Trust is generously sponsoring the carrying out of this survey with 100 children, their parents and teachers each year.

As well as supporting families PFL is also working with the 10 preschools/crèches and 3 junior schools in the areas and is supporting these centres to implement the National Framework of Standards for Early Education.

PFL is also running an ongoing community Stress Control programme which is open to all adults in the area free of charge.

PFL has been working with families for over a year now and so far 71 families have joined the programme. We hope to have 200 families involved by the end of 2009. We welcome anybody living in our catchment area and expecting a baby and we can be contacted at 8771509 or 087-2516269.
